Drawings

The drawings were received on May 6, 2004. These drawings are acceptable.

Claim Objections

Claim 2 is objected to because of the following informalities: In claim 2, "said apparatus components" lacks antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. It is unclear as to how the acoustic transducer is transparent to x-rays when the only disclosed materials for the electrodes are aluminum and stainless steel which are both known to be radiopaque. It should be noted that the claims fail to set forth that the electrodes are "substantially transparent" to x-rays. Therefore, any attenuation of the x-rays by the electrodes would not allow them to be transparent as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the disclosed invention is inoperative and therefore lacks utility. The specification discloses that the acoustic transducer electrodes can be made from either aluminum or stainless steel. Such materials are well known to be radiopaque and therefore not transparent to x-rays. Therefore, the use of these electrodes as disclosed would not allow for the transducer to be transparent to x-rays.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed May 6, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's arguments regarding the relationship of electrode thickness to its ability to be transparent to x-rays is noted, however, applicant's mere allegations are unsupported by evidence to support such allegations. Evidence submitted by a disinterested third party attesting to the fact that electrodes having the thickness disclosed can be transparent to x-rays regardless of whether the material is normally considered to be radiopaque would be sufficient to overcome the rejections of claims 1-10 under 35 USC 112 and 35 USC 101. Furthermore, it should be noted that the claims fail to set forth that the electrodes are "substantially transparent" to x-rays. Therefore, any attenuation of the x-rays by the electrodes would not allow them to be transparent as claimed.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
